LONDON — Rogers said Nixon will press Soviet leaders for progress on the U.S. proposal for a mutual troop reduction in Europe. Speaking in London, the secretary of state said another issue Nixon will discuss in Moscow this month is the Strategic Arms Limitations Talks. "The signature of an agreement in Moscow is a distinct possibility," he said in referring to the SALT talks. (Details on page 2.)

Turkey alerts army

ISTANBUL — Turkey's armed forces were placed on emergency alert after an assassination attempt against the commander of the national police, officials said. They added it was the first such move since the Cyprus crisis of 1964 when Turkey and Greece almost went to war over the island. In Sofia, Bulgaria, meanwhile, four Turkish students gave up their efforts to use a hijacked plane to force Turkey to free three condemned guerrillas. They surrendered to Bulgarian police. (Details on page 2.)

Meir in Romania

BUCHAREST — Israel's Meir flew to Romania for three days of talks on the Mideast conflict, trade and Jewish immigration problems. She was the first Israeli government official to visit a communist country, and Romania is the only Red nation that has maintained full trade and diplomatic links with the Jewish state since the 1967 Mideast war. After arriving in Budapest, Mrs. Meir spent more than two hours conferring with Prime Minister Ion Georghe Maurer.

Minister vows to fight

ULSTER — Rev. Ian Paisley vowed "to fight to the death" any move by Britain to unite Ulster with the Irish Republic. The militant protestant leader made the pledge in a "solemn warning" addressed to William Whitelaw, Britain's secretary of state for Northern Ireland.

Navy secretary retires

WASHINGTON — John H. Chafee retired as secretary of the Navy Thursday and received a farewell from Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird that virtually amounted to a kick-off for a Chafee election campaign. Chafee is expected to run against Sen. Clairborne Pell, D-R.I., this fall.

New department approved

WASHINGTON — A House subcommittee approved a bill to create a proposed new Department of Community Development in a 10-0 vote which gave Nixon a strong first victory for his plans to reorganize the executive branch of the federal government. The proposed new department would include all of the present Department of Housing and Urban Development plus the Urban Mass Transportation Administration.

Rescuers find 8 more miners

KELLOGG, Idaho (UPI) — Rescuers reached the smoke-clogged No. 10 shaft of the Sunshine Mine Thursday and found eight more bodies, bringing to 32 the death toll of western silver mining's worst catastrophe.

They pressed on toward 50 other miners trapped a mile down the shaft.

Sunshine Mining Co. officials said the rescue crews using breathing masks and tanks of oxygen, had reached the hoist room of the No. 10 shaft and prepared to descend to the 5,000 foot level as soon as it was pumped out and the hoist cleaned of soot and debris.

The rest of the trapped miners were believed at that level, where officials hoped they had been able to survive in fresh air pockets or by tapping the air pipe which line the Sunshine's 100 miles of chambers and passageways.

The fire broke out at mid-day Tuesday in Old Timbers in the 88 year old mine.

A total of 108 miners got out alive.

The eight bodies found Thursday afternoon were discovered in the hoist room of the No. 10 shaft. The other 24 victims were found Tuesday and Wednesday.

The rescuers who had earlier been beaten back by heavy smoke again and again, finally made it to the No. 10 hoist room from both the Jewell Shaft, main tunnel of the Sunshine, and from a shaft bored through from the adjoining Silver Summit Mine.

Ships, planes rushed to Asia

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Defense Department said Thursday the United States is rushing additional ships and planes to Southeast Asia to protect remaining American troops and help South Vietnam throw back Hanoi's offensive.

Pentagon spokesman Jerry Friedheim refused to identify ship or plane movements, by number or type, being sent and withholding the announcement until their arrival in the war zone.

However, he said the United States would make sure that Gen. Creighton W. Abrams, the American commander in Vietnam, "has all the air and sea assets he may need to protect remaining American forces in Vietnam and to assist the South Vietnamese."

The Pentagon meanwhile displayed photographs and descriptions of a dozen "new and sophisticated Soviet weapons" it said Hanoi's forces were using for the first time in South Vietnam.

They included a 130mm artillery piece with a 17-mile range, the AT3 wire-guided antitank missile, two medium tanks and the SA7 antiaircraft missile, a four-foot-long device fired from an infantryman's shoulder and believed to have caused the crash of two mail U.S. aircraft in the past week.

A U.S. C5A cargo plane flew three M48 Patton medium tanks to South Vietnam Wednesday to help replace about 30 tanks South Vietnam lost when the provincial capital of Quang Tri fell earlier in the week.

Friedheim would not disclose what other arms or equipment are being dispatched.

Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird sent Barry J. Shillito, assistant defense secretary for installations and logistics, to Vietnam Wednesday with five generals and admirals to determine what supplies Saigon forces need to repel the Hanoi invasion now threatening the old imperial capital of Hue.

In its supporting role, the United States has acknowledged reinforcement of its B52 and other air combat forces in the past five weeks, an increase of more than 80 of these strategic bombers as of last week and of about 250 other planes.

Friedheim said the new Soviet-made weapons, seen for the first time in the south even though they have been in North Vietnam's hands for years in some cases, are entering Vietnam mostly through the port of Haiphong. He said about two dozen Soviet and Communist-bloc vessels, about the capacity of that northern port, were presently unloading. The traffic in the harbor has doubled since the invasion began.

The State Department said that even though the Paris talks "seemed to have gotten nowhere," the United States remained available to negotiate through public or private channels whenever the Communists are ready.

Commenting on the second U.S. breakoff of the talks in six weeks, department spokesman Charles W. Bray said: "When it came time to examine the negotiating baggage which the other side brought to Paris, we found they had only empty suitcases."

Neither Bray nor the White House would comment on widespread reports that White House adviser Henry A. Kissinger made a quick visit to Paris Tuesday to confer secretly with Le Duc Tho, the chief North Vietnamese strategist in Paris.

U.S. stops peace talks

PARIS (UPI) — The United States Thursday indefinitely suspended the Paris peace talks for the second time because of "lack of progress in every available channel" of negotiations. It indicated hopes also were dim for secret negotiations.

In a repeat of his March 23 action which cancelled regular weekly sessions for five weeks, U.S. negotiator William J. Porter told North Vietnam and the Viet Cong it was useless trying to talk to them.

"Let it be recorded that it is impossible to induce you to discuss particular subjects bearing on a peaceful settlement," he said. "That truth is as clear as your military aggression in South Vietnam. We therefore see no grounds for a meeting next week."

Talking to reporters afterward, Porter said, "Don't get the idea that this is the result purely of this meeting held here today. It represents a complete lack of progress in every available channel."

U.S. remains available

Communist negotiators immediately denounced the U.S. move as "sabotage" of the conference. Nguyen Thanh Le, spokesman of the Hanoi delegation, hinted to reporters later at a news conference that no secret talks could resume until the United States returned to the Paris conference table.

Viet Cong form own government

SAIGON (UPI) — The Viet Cong proclaimed a government of its own Thursday in the captured provincial capital of Quang Tri, but in embattled Hué 32 miles away South Vietnamese President Nguyen Van Thieu expressed confidence in the durability of his northern front.

Communist units were moving toward the coastal city from three sides Thursday, and refugees filled Highway 1 leading from Hué to Da Nang 50 miles to the south.

Heaviest fighting was reported 10 miles to the west of Hué, where Artillery Base King was under heavy Communist mortar and artillery bombardment.

The base is the westernmost outpost on South Vietnam's northern front.

Thieu, wearing a blue bush suit and baseball cap, flew to Hué from Saigon in his private plane and conferred for two hours with his new northern front commander, Lt. Gen. Ngo Quang Truong. Thieu gave the post to Truong Thursday after firing the two generals who commanded the forces that were routed at Quang Tri.

Rides anti-busing tide

Wallace takes strong win

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (UPI) — Gov. George C. Wallace of Alabama rode a tide of antibusing sentiment and Republican crossovers to his second Democratic presidential primary victory Thursday, taking nearly 70 per cent of the vote in a Tennessee contest shunned by most candidates.

In a field of 11, Sen. Hubert Humphrey of Minnesota, who realized after Wallace won the Florida primary that it would be futile to campaign in Tennessee, placed a distant second but was well ahead of Sen. George M. McGovern of South Dakota, running third.

"I feel very good about this overwhelming victory," said Wallace, who left Nashville at midday to campaign in Flint, Mich. "Tennessee is a progressive state. The people of Tennessee are sending a strong message to the Democratic party."

Hours before all the polls had closed, enough returns were in to establish that Wallace had scored as lopsided a victory as any in modern Tennessee history. Each of the first 69 counties to report returns was going for the Alabama governor.

With 1,649 of the state's 2,422 precincts reported, Wallace had 163,441, or 70 per cent of the votes. Humphrey had 35,471, or 15 per cent. McGovern had 18,451, or 8 per cent. Sen. Edmund Muskie of Maine, was fourth with 5,893, or 2 per cent.

GOP crossovers were abundant. In traditionally Republican east Tennessee, far more voters than usual participated in the Democratic primary to support Wallace.

The victory—if state law is followed—will give Wallace 49 more delegates for the Democratic National Convention, bringing his total to 169. That will move him ahead of Muskie, who had 131 1/2 delegates.

Hoover mourned in final farewell

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The mighty of government and the public he tried to serve so devotedly bade final farewell Thursday to J. Edgar Hoover, with President Nixon eulogizing him as a "peace officer without peer" during nearly half a century at the helm of the FBI. Members of Congress, the Cabinet, the Supreme Court and hundreds of admirers jammed the National Presbyterian Church to attend the nationally televised funeral services for the highly controversial FBI chief, found dead at 77 in his home Tuesday of an apparent heart attack.

Hoover was buried in a private family ceremony at the Congressional Cemetery, about a mile from the U.S. Capitol where his body had lain in state for 22 1/2 hours in an honor never before bestowed on a civil servant. Police estimated that almost 18,000 persons had filed by the flag-draped bier before the casket was moved to the church Thursday.

In his 11-minute eulogy, Nixon hailed Hoover as "one of the giants" in American history who nearly singlehandedly built the FBI into "the finest law enforcement agency on earth" and then led a battle to reverse "the trend of permissiveness ... which was dangerously eroding our national heritage as a law-abiding people."

"The American people," said Nixon, "are tired of disorder, disruption and disrespect for law. America wants to come back to the law as a way of life, and as we do come back to the law, the memory of this great man who never left the law as a way of life will be accorded even more honor than it commands today."

HHH emerges narrow winner in Ohio primary

By United Press International

Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, on the basis of narrow wins in Akron and Dayton, emerged Thursday as the apparent narrow winner over Sen. George S. McGovern in Ohio's count-snared Democratic Presidential primary.

At the same time, Gov. George C. Wallace, a narrow loser to Humphrey in Tuesday's Indiana primary, appeared headed toward victory in Tennessee's presidential primary.

Virtually ignored by other candidates and angered over court ordered busing to integrate schools, Tennessee voters were expected to commit the state's 49 Democratic convention delegates to Wallace, who won the Florida primary on the busing issue March 14.

With 95 per cent of Tuesday's Ohio vote counted, Humphrey had 454,722 votes to 431,714 for McGovern. Included in the Humphrey column were late returns Thursday from the Akron and Dayton areas, where he apparently drew strong support from blacks and the United Rubber Workers Union.

In Cleveland, meantime, a federal judge ruled that his court had no jurisdiction in a suit to have all primary ballots from Cuyahoga (Cleveland) County impounded and counted by federal marshals. The suit was based on a foulup that delayed the opening of some polling places and caused others to remain closed all day.

But Judge Frank J. Battisti took under advisement a request from the Cuyahoga County Election Board that a second election be held today in the 16 precincts that failed to open.

As in the Florida primary, Tennesseans had the opportunity to oppose forced busing in two ways—express their opposition to it in a referendum included on Thursday's ballot, and vote for Wallace.

Despite the intensity over the busing issue, especially in Nashville and Memphis, the early Tennessee turnout was light.

In the Republican primary, President Nixon had only token opposition in his quest for Tennessee's 26 delegates to the Republican convention.

Wallace, in Nashville on election eve, said an overwhelming victory by him should commit Tennessee's 49 Democratic delegates to stick by him even after the first ballot at Miami Beach in July.

"The people of Tennessee are not going to like it if they vote for Wallace and the delegates don't go for him," said Wallace.

Turkey alerts armed forces in assassination attempt

ANKARA (UPI) — Turkey placed its armed forces on emergency alert Thursday shortly after gunmen shot and wounded the national police commander in an attempted assassination.

Authorities said all troops were ordered confined to barracks and all leaves were cancelled in the first such action by Turkish military commanders since the Cyprus crisis of 1964.

The Turkish general staff issued the alert order a few hours after four gunmen tried to kill Gen. Kemalettin Eken, 61, commander of the Turkish gendarmerie, outside his home in Ankara.

Eden was wounded in the leg and armpit and a hospital spokesman said his condition was good.

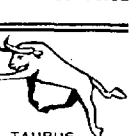

One of his assailants was killed, two others captured and four other men wounded when the gunman opened up with machineguns from a passing car as Eken was entering his own automobile. The wounded men included two of Eken's bodyguards, an aide and his chauffeur.

Government sources said Thursday's order did not mean a national state of emergency, but only that armed forces had been placed on alert.

March 21 to April 19 (Aries) — By using your ingenuity, you can not only make fine advancement, but can push others of less courage and self-confidence into amazingly successful action. But be discreet in the doing!

April 21 to May 19 (Taurus) — This day should turn out satisfactorily if you are master of your emotions in all situations. A display of temperament—or temper—could upset the proverbial applecart.

May 22 to June 21 (Gemini) — Auspicious influences for advancement. Concentrate on your most important objectives; tackle some of the big issues; capitalize on abilities. In other words, ACTION!

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer) — A give-and-take spirit must prevail now or you will find that you have plenty of opposition, much of it needless. Make a genuine effort to avoid contention.

July 24 to August 23 (Leo) — Ask for an accounting where due; give one as readily. This will keep everything aboveboard, as you like it. Inch by inch, you can make gains and stabilize holdings.

August 24 to September 23 (Virgo) — A thorough search will turn up many unusual advantages, so look well. Be adamant where your highest principles are concerned, but be open to good suggestions.

September 24 to October 22 (Libra) — With your innate good judgment and clever management, you should do well now, whatever your calling. On the personal side romance favored.

October 23 to November 22 (Scorpio) — Your planetary influences advise against useless activity, negative attitudes, opposing others without reason. A day for exercising tolerance and plain commonsense.

November 23 to December 21 (Sagittarius) — This day asks patience on everyone's part and, if others disrupt

SALT agreement expected

But earlier Thursday, the four men surrendered and Turkish authorities announced Bulgaria agreed to grant them political asylum.

Eleven provinces of Turkey, including the Ankara and Istanbul areas, already are under martial law because of months of unrest and violence.

The assassination attempt occurred against a background of political, social and economic turmoil in Turkey.

Agreement with Russia on the festering Middle East conflict, however, is all but ruled out, they added.

These developments emerged from talks Thursday between visiting U.S. Secretary of State William P. Rogers with British Foreign Secretary Sir Alec Douglas-Home and Prime Minister Edward Heath.

Rogers, who arrived Wednesday from consultations with European capitals from now to May 10 to inform allies of Nixon's plans for the summit and to report to the President on the Europeans' views.

State Department spokesman Robert J. McCloskey told a news conference Rogers gave Home these outlines of Nixon's summit agenda:

—The Strategic Arms Limitations Talks (SALT) will be one of the principal topics of the discussions with prospect of an agreement being signed.

—Bilateral American-Russian space projects, including joint docking arrangements.

—Maritime issues which have been under negotiation in Washington recently.

—The Middle East conflict.

—Measures against incidents at sea.

The American sources said they expected the SALT agreement would contain some new elements. Latest news reports suggested the agreement would embrace curbs on anti-missile systems and a freeze on some offensive rockets. However, there was no official confirmation.

The Miami Beach city council voted 4 to 3 Wednesday to invite the GOP to the city where the Republicans met in 1968 and the Democrats are convening this year on July 10.

Shapp defends taxes

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — Gov. Milton J. Shapp said Thursday that although the tax climate in Pennsylvania is not perfect, businessmen make it seem a lot worse than it really is.

Shapp directed his comments to a group of Pittsburgh business leaders at a luncheon sponsored by the Three Rivers Improvement and Development Corp.

"I am not saying that Pennsylvania has the most favorable tax climate in the nation," Shapp said.

PETER B. HUTT, FDA general counsel, told a news conference the new policy would open to the public roughly 90 per cent of the agency's files. At present, he said, about 90 per cent are kept from public scrutiny.

"Under the proposed rules, Hutt said, the FDA would release most data on safety and effectiveness of food additives and antibiotic drugs and would provide copies of letters pointing out unsanitary conditions in food plants.

Phone, mail confuse West End residents

West End Bureau

SAYLORSBURG — Post office addresses don't always correspond with telephone exchanges in the West End.

Nobody knows that better than several West End residents who have mailing addresses that normally aren't served by their telephone company.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Hoffer live in Saylorsburg, but have a Kunkletown exchange number. When people try to call them, the Saylorsburg operator explains they don't have a telephone.

When the Hoffer's had a fire recently and asked their operator to call the Blue Ridge Fire Company in Saylorsburg, she didn't have the number listed and insisted on calling the Kunkletown fire department.

The West End ambulance is in the Palmerton Telephone Company exchange. People who are serviced by Bell Telephone or Commonwealth Telephone can't find the ambulance number in their directory when there is an emergency.

These are some of the problems that have been caused because the post office addresses don't match the telephone boundary lines.

Spokesmen from all three telephone companies indicate, however, that problems of this type can be solved quickly and efficiently if subscribers will contact their local telephone company about the problem.

Protection panel boon to consumers

GILBERT — How many times has one of your appliances gone out and you didn't know what to do with it?

In this highly industrialized gadget age, the chances are that it has probably happened more than once.

According to the Monroe County Cooperative Extension Service, some relief is in sight for unsatisfied customers.

The Major Consumer Action Panel (MACAP) has been formed recently to make sure consumers get the maximum benefits from the products they buy.

The Chicago-based company recommends that when problems occur, the consumer should try to solve them locally, and if satisfaction is not reached, then the manufacturer should be contacted.

If both of these attempts fail, the consumer can write to the MACAP at 20 North Wacker Drive, Chicago, Ill. 60606 or call the panel collect at 312-236-3165.

The MACAP will study the problem and make a recommendation for a solution.

Approximately one-third of all service calls, according to the MACAP, are unnecessary because consumers do not double check the plugs, fuses and control settings or read their instruction manuals.

In discussing consumer responsibility, the panel says five main things should be done to insure appliance satisfaction. They are:

— Study the instruction manual that accompanies any

Sadat war talk sheer madness

The Vietnam conflict, among other things, has brought home to millions throughout the world the indefinable horror of war. So has the plight of the massacred and starving people of Bangladesh.

You would think this concentrated nightmare would give second thoughts to anyone contemplating attacking another nation. But there is in the Mideast a man who heads a nation of millions publicly planning a war to exterminate a people and wipe a nation off the map — President Anwar Sadat of Egypt.

Perhaps it is just his way of placating the fire-eaters in his constituency while he seeks a peaceful solution to the Arab-Israeli conflict. But then, perhaps not. We cannot allow ourselves the luxury of thinking all-out war is impossible.

And if there is danger in our bombing of Haiphong, with its crowded Soviet and Red Chinese ships, there is as much in the Mideast, where thousands of Soviet troops are acting as "advisors" to the Egyptian army, and where the United States is giving wholehearted support to the effort of Israel to defend itself against annihilation.

The United States slid into the Vietnam war. Before you could blink, it seems, we were in it with both feet, and our attempts to get out have not ceased since 1968. But here is Sadat going ahead with his plans for a massive invasion of Israeli-held territory and Israel itself, and calmly predicting two million people may die in that conflict.

This is sheer madness. And so is the Soviet Union's endorsement of Sadat's intention to seize by force lands lost to Israel in the 1967 war. Better by far that all that energy and money — Sadat told a cheering May Day crowd Egypt already has spent $10 billion to prepare for the next war — to work for a peaceful solution to the problem of boundaries and the pitiful plight of Arab refugees.

"The next war." No mention of the next peace, just the next war, the killing of millions, the misery of millions more, and all over territory that must have some population. What difference if those inhabitants are Israeli or Arab? Aren't they all human?

And the ironic part is that this, and other inflammatory, violence-preaching speeches were made on May Day — a day traditionally devoted to the celebration of the coming of spring, a time of renewal, of burgeoning life, of a peaceful time.

Puck said, "What fools these mortals be." Amen, brother. Amen.

What else is new?

Cliches are faddish sorts of things, but because they are based on truths — that's why they become cliches — there soon is a new pat phrase to define the same truth, but in a more socially acceptable way.

And so it is with the attitude of old that when a child had passed the "age of reason," he could be trusted with more and more responsibility — and was given it. Perhaps it started with a few minor household chores. And by the time the youngster was in his teens, he carried a yet heavier load of the many aspects of running a household... and even more so if he happened to live on a family farm.

That attitude was lost, though, within the last generation or so, by parents who remembered their own responsible youth with distaste (responsibility, while necessary, is not the most pleasant of burdens) and vowed their children would not have to "go through what we went through."

Only now our psychologists and sociologists have rediscovered what our grandparents knew instinctively — responsibility was invaluable to the successful maturing of a child, and so we have an appeal now for children to be considered as people and not as possessions or household pets.

The new approach is to call this return of responsibility to children a "bill of rights for kids." It all sounds very radical and makes for a catchy phrase to put on a movement that is as old as humanity — give everyone in the family a proportionate share of responsibility for the family's welfare and success as a social unit.

Merry-go-round

Political payoff

By JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON — A prominent ad agency broke off its campaign to help Senator Jim Eastland's rival in Mississippi's Democratic primary after the agency was promised it might get a cut of President Nixon's lucrative campaign advertising.

Eastland, of course, is the Senate Judiciary chairman who bailed out Richard Kleindienst, the President's choice for attorney general, during the ITT hearings.

Before the first witness was heard, Eastland declared his faith in Kleindienst and, thereafter, steered him helpfully through the stormy hearings.

Eastland was also the lone Democrat who voted with the Republicans, in the end, to shut off the hearings to avoid any more embarrassing testimony.

Yet, despite the appearance of a blatant political deal, the parties to it insist it can all be explained away as fast as you can say ITT.

Here are the facts:

Taylor Webb, a moderate Leland, Miss., lawyer, decided early this year to run against the owlish Eastland, whose power in the Senate is based on 30 years seniority.

Webb resisted pressure to keep out of the race and announced his candidacy. He then sought an advertising agency to handle his campaign, but four in a row turned him down.

He was compelled, finally, to go out of the state for help, and he signed up the respected Houston firm of Culberson, Heller and Norton.

"Before I signed with these people, I asked if they knew what they were getting into," Webb told my associate Les Whitten. "Bob Heller and Jim Culberson both said they did."

Webb advanced the agency $7,500. The Houston firm cashed the check and started producing TV spots. On April 15, they were still working loyally for Webb against Eastland when peppery Sen. John Tower, R-Tex., one of their key clients, flew into Houston.

Errand boy

It's an open secret in Washington that Tower is an errand boy for the White House. He notified the Houston ad agency that if they wanted to stay in his good graces, they would have to drop Webb.

Earlier, Tower had promised the agency to seek the Texas contract for President Nixon's campaign with its millions in billings. This, too, was in the balance.

As one of the partners, Ed Norton, explained to us: "Tower told us months earlier he would try to get us the presidential business. We felt that before, during and after (the meeting with Tower), he intended to help us."

Tower told us that he had reaffirmed his commitment to the young agency at the meeting. "I said I would try to get some of the Nixon business for them but I'd have done that for them anyway," he advised us.

Within 24 hours of Tower's warning to the agency, another partner, Bob Heller, was on the phone with an outraged Taylor Webb. Recalls Webb: "Heller told me he was going to withdraw from my campaign at the direction of Senator John Tower. Heller said that Tower did not want them involved in Mississippi in a campaign against Senator Eastland." Heller denied to us that he had mentioned Eastland's name.

What makes this all the more curious is that Tower is a Republican and Eastland a Democrat. Normally, Republicans don't help Democrats to win re-election to the Senate.

The ad agency put out the story that they had dropped the Webb account solely because they were too busy with the Tower campaign. But the agency knew how busy they would be before they signed on with Webb.

We have now discovered that agency partner Norton, after begging off Webb's campaign allegedly because of too much work, flew secretly to Washington on April 27 to seek Nixon's political advertising. In short, Norton went to Washington to see that Nixon's advertising team delivered on Tower's promise.

Norton talked to the "November Group," as the Nixon advertising team is called. He spoke to the group's executive vice president, Phil Joanou, who works under the direction of former Attorney General John Mitchell.

Mitchell also was handled with great gentleness by Senator Eastland during the ITT hearings.

Joanou promised to consider the Houston agency when it comes time to dish out the advertising accounts.

Heart study

In the 1960's, all sciences — chemistry, physics, mathematics, engineering — combined their forces to send a man to the moon.

When the idea was first conceived, there were those who denied that it could ever become a reality.

In the 1970's, from a medical point of view, prevention of heart disease will be prime target.

The National Heart and Lung Institute has been given top priority to study, and link together, all the known risk factors responsible for premature heart disease.

Besides high blood pressure, high blood fats, tobacco, obesity, and congenital heart defects, the most minute chemical studies will ferret out the reasons why so many vital people unnecessarily lose their lives with coronary heart disease.

Dr. Theodore Cooper, Director of the National Heart and Lung Institute, says that within a year more than 20,000 people in Centers all over the United States will be studied in an effort to eliminate or reduce the known risk factors.

There will be concentration on the early detection of potential heart disease victims.

The 1970's, with such a dynamic program, will undoubtedly produce the artificial heart, or a device to partially assist the heart that is threatened.

There is a growing trend to try to make some surgical cases a one-day case in order to avoid longer, highly expensive hospitalization.

More and more doctors believe that relatively healthy people who need minor surgery can recover just as rapidly after a single day in the hospital and a return to their homes for convalescence.

The hospitals that are trying this program, of course, recognize that safety cannot be sacrificed.

In Chicago, the Wesley Memorial Hospital had embarked on such a program. Dr. James Hines, Professor of Surgery, believes this program is of extreme benefit.

It offers greater utilization of hospital beds, and a great saving for the patient, in time and money.

Inside look at political intrigue

By JIM HAMPTON
Dow Jones - Ottawa News Service

Just as night follows Noon and Lemmings fling themselves into the sea, a primordial impulse to write books seizes everyone who has been anyone in any administration in Washington.

Presidents, of course, write their memoirs and establish libraries in which are deposited such documents of state as are not worthy of being leaked to the New York Times.

Maids who hitherto have set pen to nothing weightier than a laundry slip, tell all from their vantage point backstairs at the White House.

Will anyone even feign surprise when, an administration from now on, the White House sommelier writes that — psst! — Richard Nixon really did quaff Kool-Aid with his salad of catsup on cottage cheese?

In between the political apologies and the gossip, some exceptional courtier occasionally writes a book that is neither, one that's just plain good fiction.

Pierre Salinger, press secretary to Presidents Kennedy and Johnson, quondam senator turned businessman, is that man of this hour.

"On instructions of my Government," Salinger's first novel, is a tale of foreign policy as it is bent by the winds of election-year White House politics and international intrigue.

What makes it an absorbing yet disturbing book isn't the plot which is unexceptional. Rather, it's that Salinger knows firsthand whereof he writes; that what he describes not only can happen, but nearly did during the Cuban missile crisis in 1962; and that, God save the mark, Pierre Salinger can write.

The book is set in Santa Clara, a wretched coastal country in Latin America. Santa Clara is kept afloat by U.S. aid and ruled by Jorge Luchengo, who came to power after a revolution whose co-leader he then executed.

When the American President, facing reelection, decides to cut Luchengo's aid, Luchengo turns to his only remaining angels. They are the Chinese Communists, who buy Santa Clara's copper while supporting Luchengo's revolutionary rival in order overthrow Luchengo and set up missiles in Santa Clara.

And they also are the mafia which wants to "develop" the coast for tourists — the first ones being mafia leaders who are under indictment and need an extradition-proof haven.

Against these forces there stands U.S. Ambassador Sam Hood, a graying new frontiersman of ability and courage who is weary of executing policies that he knows are based on election-year presidential expediency.

Nobody believes the ambassador when he insists the Chinese are about to grab off Santa Clara and, through it, perhaps all of Latin America.

The CIA says he's wrong; the secretary of state won't back him; and a jealous presidential assistant undercutts Hood and shrugs off his advice.

Pierre Salinger was in the White House during the Cuban missile crisis, and his Santa Clara crisis rings with the authentic detail of momentous decisions and the pressures that shape them.

His message is that, in a democratic society that elects its leadership every four years, statecraft is too often a mere by-product of politics, a fact that places the Sam Hoods in a moral stew.

They must attempt to justify to foreign governments policies they know are shortsighted or wrong. And when finally they despair of ever being listened to rather than just heard, the rules decree that they depart in silence. One does not rock the boat, especially not from the pier.

Before entering government, Salinger spent a decade as a practicing journalist. He writes with a smooth combination of the novelist's grace and the journalist's direct, no-nonsense style.

And even though his plot's similarity to the Cuban crisis gives away the ending from the outset, it's a hard book to lay aside. It even has a happy ending — the mark of an author who knows the difference between politics and political fiction.

Responsible for helping people

Bonecrack, by Dick Francis. (Harper & Row, $5.95)

Dick Francis has been responsible for helping a number of people, many of whom wouldn't know a tout from a trainer, become knowledgeable about racing.

Francis accomplished this simply by writing neat, clean-flowing mystery novels that depend heavily upon his own background as a successful steeplechaser.

But such is his skill that he likely could write about professional volley ball players and turn up a winner.

Second cousin to lion books

The Lions of Living Free, by Jack Couffer. (Dutton, $5.95).

This little book is a poor second cousin to Joy Adamson's fine lion books. It is written by the director of the film "Living Free," a sequel to "Born Free," and reads more like an attempt to plug this film than anything else.

It is a rambling account of the filming that flits from topic to topic, giving only a small section to what could be the book's most fascinating part — how a lion is persuaded to perform.

The two redeeming features of the book are a fine selection of photographs, and a reprint of portions of the diary of Marchesa Sieuwke Bisleti, the "nanny" to five lion cubs and the person who really should have written a book about her experiences with lions.

Another result of the examination of the Bloomsburg foundation records by the Department of the Auditor General was the remittance by the foundation to the Commonwealth of $1,833 it had realized as profit from a freshmen orientation program and the reimbursement of $6 each to 959 students totaling $5,754 for "overcharges".

At Clarion State College the Auditor General's examination disclosed that there was approximately $100,000 in unlawful deposits or investments. At this writing, Clarion State authorities had not complied with the recommendations made by Mr. Casey — recommendations which included that:

— $70,818 be returned immediately for deposit by the college in approved banks.

— $13,903 be returned to the Clarion State College Students Association — these being funds that had been diverted into foundation accounts.

For lottery winners

State pledges speedy payments

HARRISBURG (UPI) — The state Revenue Department renewed its pledge Thursday to provide checks for lottery winners three weeks after they file a claim.

"It was taking too long for a winner to get his check," Revenue Secretary Robert P.

Kane said in a statement, "especially in view of the fact the claim forms state that a period of three weeks should be allowed for receipt of a check."

"We are not meeting that deadline. We apologize for the initial delay and we are doing something about it."

Kane said when tickets are turned in at liquor stores, they must be relayed to one of the more than 300 banks which act as safekeeping facilities for the lottery.

The bank, in turn, relays the claim to another centralized bank in Philadelphia or Pittsburgh which turns it over to the regional office of the lottery.

The regional office carries the claim to Harrisburg.

Kane said that in each of the succeeding steps, the claim and ticket must be hand delivered because of federal restrictions.

Once the claim and ticket reach Lottery Bureau headquarters here, it takes about two weeks to dispatch a check to the winner.

"They major problem is cutting the time it takes a claim to reach Harrisburg," Kane said.

'Battle of Gettysburg' over tower may start again

GUTHYSBURG, Pa. (UPI) — State Attorney General J. Shapp Creamer Thursday disclosed the Commonwealth may reopen its case against the proposed 307-foot Otenstein Observation Tower on the Gettysburg Battlefield.

Gov. Milton J. Shapp has called the state's court fight against the $1 million tower his "Second Battle of Gettysburg."

Creamer's disclosure followed a tour of the battlefield he made with the governor, who addressed members of the President's Advisory Council on Historic Preservation. In a 10-minute talk, the governor said he is "tired of exploitation" and wants to "stop the crisis in advance."

Referring to sketches of the proposed tower, Shapp called it an "eyesore that would desecrate" what he called "the jewel of the National Parks." The governor warned that the tower is due to be constructed on private ground and therefore would fall outside the jurisdiction of the state.

The attorney general spent the better part of Wednesday in Washington pleading the state's case. He said Thursday that council members concurred with the state that an agreement with real estate promoter Thomas Otenstein was hastily entered into and recommended against it.

Creamer added that the state would have valid grounds on which to reopen its case in Adams County Court if the council formally shunned the Otenstein plan.

Hijacking Turks abandon effort to free guerrillas

SOFIA, Bulgaria (UPI) — Four Turks gave up efforts Thursday to force Turkey to free three condemned guerrillas and released passengers and crew of the plane they hijacked Wednesday and threatened to blow up with all aboard. No one was hurt.

The plane was carrying 68 persons. Six passengers and two stewardesses were allowed to leave the DC9 twin-jet late Wednesday and early Thursday after suffering minor heart attacks or collapsing from nervous exhaustion.

Bulgaria granted the four hijackers political asylum to protect the passengers and crewmen and keep the negotiations going.

While the talks went on, the Bulgarian Foreign Ministry was reported maintaining contacts with Turkish authorities because of what was said to be "a real danger for the life of the passengers and crew."

The official Bulgarian news agency BTA announced Thursday afternoon that the hijackers gave up without a struggle and handed over their pistols WILLING EAR: (Q.) This boy calls me on the phone or comes to see me so he can talk to me about his girl friend. The more he talks to me about her the more I love him.

She treats him like dirt. On a date she gives him a very hard time. When he asked her to his senior prom she made him wait three weeks before she said yes. I asked him what he sees in her and he said, "nothing."

Miss Jacqueline Rosemond bride of Dr. Thompson

BUSHKILL — A theme of lavender and turquoise was carried throughout the wedding of Miss Jacqueline Benedict Rosemond, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. Thomas Rosemond, Sr., of 831 Thomas St., Stroudsburg, to Dr. Harold D. Thompson of Washington, D.C. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Stewart Thompson of Orangeburg, S.C.

The wedding vows were exchanged in the wedding chapel at Fernwood, Bushkill, with the Rev. Isaac N. Patterson, pastor of the Bethel A.M.E. Church, Stroudsburg, and Union A.M.E. Church, Easton, officiating. Assisting with the ceremony and giving the consecration prayer was the Rev. Howard Williams of Washington, D.C.

Prior to the 1 p.m. double-ring ceremony James Bright of Easton played a medley of nuptial melodies on the organ console and accompanied tenor soloist Lorenzo Bell of Stroudsburg in the "Theme from Love Story." In addition to playing the traditional wedding march from Lohengrin, Bright also included "Trumpet Voluntary" as a recessional.

A floral arrangement of white gladioli, lavender and turquoise chrysanthemums and ivy graced the communion table which was designated by a silver bas relief of Da Vinci's "The Last Supper." Tall white candles were lighted at either end of the communion table.

At the conclusion of the exchange of vows, the Rev. Williams offered a prayer selected by the bridal couple for the wedding guests.

The bride, escorted by her father, was attired in a floorlength gown of ivory silk organza over peau de soie fashioned in an A-line with an illusion neckline and full bishop sleeves. Matching organza ruffles adorned the Victorian collar and cuffs. Handclipped appliques of re-embroidered Alencon lace were highlighted by clusters of seed pearls and applied to the sleeves, gown and at the hem of the gown. A Victorian bow held her cluster pleated detachable chapel train. An Alencon lace rose embroidered with seed pearls held her three-quarter cascade veil of imported French silk illusion. She carried a cascade arrangement of gladiolas and ivy and a pale blue linen handkerchief a gift of the matron of honor.

Mrs. Gary Hughes of New Rochelle, N.Y., cousin of the bride, was matron of honor. Her Victorian-style gown featured a fitted bodice highlighted by lace threaded with lavender organza ribbons. The beribboned lace appeared at the collar and cuffs and again in the miniature colonial bouquet of lavender gladiolas. Contrasting with the white bodice and bishop sleeves was the long full skirt with a hem ruffle of lavender organza over taffeta. She wore a Renaissance cap with a crystal cluster of lavender veiling.

Serving as bridesmaids were Miss Elaine Makosky of Stroudsburg; Miss Lynn Beville of White Plains, N.Y., cousin of the bride; Miss Taran Cohen of Toledo, O., and Miss Barbara Massey of Wind Gap. Their gowns and bouquets were in the same style as that of the matron of honor but the lace ribboning and skirts and Renaissance caps were in deep turquoise, as were the gladiola bouquets.

Miss Natalie Dukes, eight-year-old daughter of Mr. and

Mrs. Harold D. Thompson
(Arnold Studio)

Mrs. Lee Dukes of Stroudsburg, as flower girl was attired in a miniature ensemble matching that of the matron of honor. She carried a basket of daisy petals. Master Kenneth Frank Getz, four-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Getz of Stroudsburg, as ring bearer was dressed in a little Lord Fauntleroy suit of turquoise cut velvet with a turquoise floral print silk lining, fashioned by his mother. He carried a lace-trimmed white satin pillow.

Serving as best man was Dr. Greg Washington of Washington, D.C. Ushers were W. Thomas Rosemond, Jr., of Chicago, brother of the bride; Dr. James Tate and Dr. Marshall Nickerson, both of Washington, D.C., and Dale Lesoine of Stroudsburg. The male attendants wore ruffled formal turquoise shirts with the best man in a lavender ruffled formal shirt.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Rosemond chose a floor length gown of peach polyester double knit highlighted along princess lines by iridescent. A wreath of peach roses held her veil and she received a corsage of a cymbidium orchid.

Mrs. Thompson chose a floor length gown in a floral print of lime and lemon shades with gold accessories and received a cymbidium orchid. The sheath-style gown was highlighted by a cluster-pleated panel floating from the shoulderline.

Mrs. Melinda Benedict, the bride's maternal grandmother, of Stroudsburg, was attired in a street-length ensemble of pale turquoise with matching accessories and a cymbidium orchid corsage.

Mr. and Mrs. David Strassman of Stroudsburg, the bride's godparents, were seated in the family pew. Mrs. Strassman's ensemble was in beige with silver braid trim and a cymbidium orchid corsage.

Miss Sharon M. Monahan, Skip Taylor plan to wed

EAST STROUDSBURG — Mrs. Marlon Monahan of R.D. 3, East Stroudsburg, announces the engagement of her daughter Sharon Marie to Newton C. "Skip" Taylor III, son of Mr. and Mrs. Newton Taylor, East Stroudsburg. Miss Monahan is also the daughter of Thomas A. Monahan of Stroudsburg.

They plan to be married on July 29.

They were the guests of honor at an engagement party given by Mr. Taylor's sister, Mrs. Pardee Place II. Other guests included his parents; his other sisters, Barbara and Beth Taylor; Mrs. Monahan and sons, Mark and Peter.

Maypole Dance for PTA set

EAST STROUDSBURG — The Parochial Parent-Teachers Assn. will sponsor a Maypole Dance on Saturday, May 20 in Notre Dame Auditorium.

There will be dancing from 9 p.m. to 1 a.m. to the music of The Royal Diamonds. A buffet supper will be served from 11 p.m. to 1 a.m. Reservations may be made with Mrs. Ray Luyet, 424-1607.

BY BARBARA GIBBONS

at Fernwood. The hors d'oeuvres table was graced with a three tier white cake with a miniature bride and bridegroom framed by a lace heart. Tall turquoise candles surrounded the cake. At either end of the table were ice sculptures executed from solid blocks of ice by the bride's father. One was a sculpture more than two feet high of two lovebirds with raised wings. The second sculpture was of a basket, standing four feet high at the handle. An arrangement of lavender and turquoise chrysanthemums and greens was placed in the basket.

Following the reception in the Winona Room the more than 100 wedding guests joined the wedding party in the Gas Light Lounge for dinner. Again the floral arrangements repeated those which set the color theme for the wedding. During dinner the Ed Harrington Trio played music for dancing. Miss Ann Price of Stroudsburg was in charge of the guest book.

At the completion of the dinner a five tier cake with callowades and trimmed with turquoise roses and a miniature bride and bridegroom beneath a floral arch was cut and served to guests.

For a wedding tour of Canada and the middle Atlantic States Mrs. Thompson chose a lilac double knit polyester pant ensemble with a matching double breasted jacket. On their return they will reside in Washington, D.C., in a newly furnished apartment.

Mrs. Thompson is a 1965 graduate of Stroudsburg High School and a 1967 graduate of Allentown Business School.

Mr. Thompson graduated from South Carolina State College in 1967 and will graduate in June from Howard University College of Medicine, at which time he will begin a special internship in internal medicine at the Howard University Freedman's Hospital in Washington, D.C.

Mr. and Mrs. Rosemond were hosts for the rehearsal party Friday and entertained guests at the wedding and reception from Georgia, New York, Tennessee, South Carolina and Ohio in addition to those from Washington.

William T.R. Thorn

TAD employee dies at 67

SCRANTON — Major William T.R. Thorn, Ret., 67, of 57 Fairview Ave., Mount Pocono, died Wednesday in Mercy Hospital, Scranton.

Born in Port Talbot, South Wales, Great Britain, he was the son of Mrs. Elizabeth Thorn and the late William Thorn.

He served at Tobyhanna Army Depot in the mid 1950s as provost marshal, retiring from the service 15 years ago after a 30 year career.

Upon leaving the service he remained in the area and returned to the depot as a civilian employee in the early 1960s with the Data Systems Directorate.

For the past seven years, he worked in the Plans, Training and Intelligence Office as Plans and Training Officer.

He was a member of the Soujourners Lodge, F&A.M., in Panama, and the Retired Officers Assn.

In addition to his mother, he is survived by three sons, Thomas N., Theodore N. and William L., all of Mount Pocono; one sister, Mrs. Lillian Caldwell, of Cowley, Oxford, England; two brothers, Cyril and Ronald, both of Port Talbot, South Wales, Great Britain, and one grandson.

Memorial services will be held at 11 a.m. Monday from the Mount Pocono Methodist Church with Rev. Harry L. Kauffman, Jr., officiating.

Full military honors will be accorded him at 1 p.m. Tuesday at Arlington National Cemetery, Arlington, Va.

Viewing will be after 5 p.m. Sunday at the Richard J. Klofach Funeral Home, successor to the Dunkelberger & Klofach Funeral Home, 134 Broad St., Stroudsburg.

The family will be grateful if expressions of sympathy are made in the form of memorial contributions to the Heart Assn.

Hitchhikers warned

MOUNTAINHOME — Police Chief Robert LaBar said Monday hitchhikers in Barrett Township will be prosecuted for violation of a local ordinance governing disorderly conduct.

LaBar called the roadside wanderers an "annoyance to the traveling public." He said the warm weather has been bringing out the hitchhikers. Sunday Barrett Police issued 10 warnings for hitchhiking.

Area residents recognized for organization work

STROUDSBURG — Mrs. Thomas J. Breitwieser and Mrs. Carl B. Rosenkrans have been presented honorary life memberships in the Monroe County Crippled Children and Adults Assn.

The members voted unanimously to honor the two for their many hours of unselfish work in the organization.

Mrs. Breitwieser, of 80 Analamont St., East Stroudsburg, joined the society in February, 1955. During her 37 years on the board, she has served on numerous committees, most recently as chairman of an investigating committee working directly with clients.

Mrs. Rosenkrans was president of the local society in 1958 and 1959 and was a member on the state directors' board from 1959 to 1966. In 1960, she was presented the Brace-for-an-Ace award.

In 1959, Mrs. Breitwieser

Amendment raises price

Permit cost hike approved

STROUDSBURG — Stroud Township Supervisors Wednesday night unanimously approved an amendment to the zoning ordinance increasing the cost for zoning permits.

The amendments, which has been advertised during the past month, will require a five dollar fee for the first $10,000 in value.

The amendment, which the supervisors termed more equitable to all township residents, provides a one dollar fee for each additional $1,000 in value up to $100,000 and five dollars for every $50,000 or fraction thereof afterwards.

The amendment applies to all permits requiring no board action. Permits requiring board action will cost a $30 minimum fee plus the sums provided for in the above addendum.

In other action, the supervisors appointed a six-member Board of Recreation. The following have been appointed and have accepted the position: Victor Rodite; Richard L. DeSchriver; Ray Silver; Mrs. Robert Sutton; Atty. Phillip Santucci, and Richard L. Barney.

The township heads are seeking a seven-member for the board which the Chairman Nelson Westbrook said would recommend what type of recreation is needed, how it will be financed and other pertinent information.

A contract for a new police car was awarded to Gray Chevrolet with a low bid of $1,190 including a trade-in for a 1972 vehicle. The only other bidder was Stroud Ford.

A group of Middle Road residents questioned the supervisors as to when the road will be paved claiming a lot of the residents' cars are out of line.

Road Superintendent William Crooks told the women the road will be paved in the very near future and rebuilt and paved during the summer.

A resident also asked the involvement of the township in the new state law requiring sewerage facilities for structures located on less than one tract of land.

Township engineer John

Dennis, speaking at the request of the supervisors, said until the Department of Health has made an interpretation and found means to enforce the law, little can be done.

When you want a mower that gets the job done... you buy an AMF Orange Rider.

Our riding mowers are built for lasting. So you'll spend more time taking them for granted. And less time taking them for repairs. Because they aren't loaded with plastic gadgets and fancy frills to go on the friz later on.

They're a long term investment, so when other people are changing mowers, you'll probably be changing blades.

Judge postpones sentence of youth until graduation

STROUDSBURG — President Judge Arlington W. Williams Thursday deferred sentencing a 17-year-old Stroudsburg youth charged with possession of marijuana until the day after the youth graduates from Stroudsburg High School.

The youth was arrested last Dec. 22 near Stroudsburg High School when an off-duty police officer witnessed him and another youth in a parked car and believed them to have marijuana in their possession.

The youth, who at the time of his arrest was on probation for an earlier offense involving drugs, admitted to the court he had in his possession an ounce and a half of marijuana.

The court said it was familiar with his background due to his previous appearance, and that a study of the youth's academic record indicated he would be eligible to graduate from Stroudsburg High School on June 15.

Judge Williams set final disposition in the matter for 9 a.m. June 16. Until that time, the youth will remain in the custody of his parents.

The court also delayed disposition in the case of the 17-year-old Stroud Township youth who was driving the car when the arrest was made.

Judge Williams ordered the juvenile, who admitted he had in his possession two marijuana pipes, four and a half ounces of marijuana and 30 pills, believed to be amphetamine tablets, to undergo psychiatric examination at the Allentown State Hospital.

The court also ordered a pre-disposition report on the youth concerning the boy's background. He also was remanded to the custody of his parents until final disposition is made.

In a second case, two 15-year-old Kresgeville youths were placed on probation for one year and were ordered to make restitution of damages resulting from two charges of malicious mischief carried out on two homes in the Kunkletown R.D. 1 area.

The boys were charged with breaking 16 storm windows and screens, a flood light, three other lights and a concrete bench at one residence.

At the second home, they were charged with breaking an outside porch light, an outside speaker and damaging a fence.

State in danger of losing federal Medicaid funds

By GLENN RITT
Ottaway News Service
Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON, D.C. — The state of Pennsylvania will have to quickly meet four federal Medicaid requirements or risk losing all, or part of its annual Medicaid funds, federal health officials said Thursday.

The Department of Health, Education and Welfare (HEW) told state officials there may be "no alternative" but to institute strict compliance procedures if Pennsylvania cannot meet all Federal standards regulating nursing homes.

While the state recently accepted "in intent" Federal life safety codes to replace its own fire and panic regulations, an HEW spokesman said Pennsylvania still fails in four major areas.

(The state had until April 20 to meet deadlines on all five requirements, but only was able to fully satisfy the fire safety code.)

Jack Pwiname, HEW's director of social rehabilitation services, has forwarded to Harrisburg the discrepancies between state and federal requirements.

Federal codes call for the state to consider net rather than gross income to determine the financial eligibility of needy Medicaid patients. Pennsylvania relies on gross income, Pwiname said.

By relying on a "gross" measure, HEW spokesman said, a state inadvertently discriminates against those who expend large amounts of income on medical services?

No system

Second, Pwiname pointed out in his letter, that Pennsylvania has yet to adopt a documentation system preferred by HEW because of its simplicity.

An HEW spokesman said Pennsylvania documentation system registering patient's incomes and expenditures is still too complicated to meet the federal requirement.

Third, Pwiname explained, Pennsylvania has failed to comprehensively review and report each individual nursing home patient's case, as required by federal regulations.

Control considered

Each review, an HEW spokesman said, must take into account the "quality control" offered each patient. Pennsylvania, the spokesman noted, has performed an insufficient number of reviews and failed to report to Washington the results of all cases.

Finally, Pwiname noted, Pennsylvania has been unable to provide enough supervisors for field counselors serving the blind and visually impaired Medicaid patients.

STROUDSBURG — Construction at the Monroe County Area Vocational-Technical School is about 65 per cent completed, authority members were told Thursday.

However, said architect John Ridyard, of Breslin and Ridyard, the next month will prove "a crucial time" with construction progress. The Bartonsville facility has been under construction for 11 months.

Equipment will be installed in August and the school is scheduled to open in September. Garner Slutter, clerk-of-the-works, indicated that while students will probably be able to attend opening day, the building might lack some finishing touches.

Members also noted The Sharon Herald, a division of Ottaway Newspapers, Inc., has donated over $60,000 in letterpress equipment to the school. Pickup and delivery cost $435.

In other matters, the authority voted to purchase four 1,000-gallon and one 550-gallon liquefied petroleum tanks from Pargas, Tannersville, at $2,031.90. A regular 550-gallon gas tank was purchased from Agway, Inc., at $200.

Awards were made to Stroudsburg Typewriter for 10 filing cabinets at $295; Penco Products, Oaks, for 12 tool toters at $267; Warren Balderston, Trenton, N.J., for seven drills at $318.50; Certified Chemical Co., Easton, for 12 utility cans at $288 and Martin C. Holbrook, Canadensis, for one cylinder grinding bone at $75.

Equipment will be installed in August and the school is scheduled to open in September. Garner Slutter, clerk-of-the-works, indicated that while students will probably be able to attend opening day, the building might lack some finishing touches. John Weismuth, job superintendent for Vito Construction Co., general contractors, was invited to attend the authority's June meeting.

Rangers get victory 22 years later

NEW YORK (UPI)—Brad Park scored two power play goals in the opening period, the first defenseman ever to accomplish the feat in a playoff game, and assisted on two other goals by Rod Gilbert Thursday night to lift the New York Rangers to their first victory in a Stanley Cup final in 22 years by a 5-2 score over the Boston Bruins.

The Rangers, unable to take advantage of seven manpower advantages in their 2-1 loss Tuesday night, capitalized on their first three power play chances in this crucial game for them.

Park started it with the game only 1:22 old by beating Boston goalie Gerry Cheevers from just behind the left faceoff circle, and 10 minutes later his hard shot rebounded off Cheevers' knee pad onto the stick of Gilbert, who fired the puck home from the right faceoff circle.

Park then made the score, 3-0, at the 13 minute mark when he took a feed from Gilbert and beat Cheevers from 30 feet. All three first period goals for New York went past Cheevers on his glove side.

Boston rallied to cut its deficit to 3-2 as Mike Walton scored unimpeded at 14:04 of the opening period and Bobby Orr collected his first goal of this series at 1:10 of the second period. But Gilbert collected his second goal of the game two and one-half minutes later, with Park assisting, and Pete Stenckowski put in the clincher with 37 seconds left in the period.

Boston's Wayne Cashman had a goal called back on what appeared to be a quick whistle by referee John Ashley.

Boston's Gerry Cheevers had

Score by periods:

2nd period	1. 2. New York, Gilbert 7

ESSC to get 'sneak preview' of 1972 football season

EAST STROUDSBURG — How will the East Stroudsburg State College football team move the ball next season?

This is a question which will begin to be answered Saturday in the annual Red and Black Spring Football game at 1:30 p.m. at the ESSC Stadium.

Missing from the game will be last season's entire starting backfield with the exception of fullback Bill Stowasser (Cresskill, N.J.), who shared the position in 1971. Also gone are both of last year's starting ends.

Coach Charlie Reese plans to use freshman Jim Emery

(Allentown), as quarterback of one team with sophomore Jim McMahon (Exeter), at the helm of the other.

The pair, along with baseball player Charlie Sandora (Somerville, N.J.), must replace two-year starter Steve Mumma, who completed 108 of 205 passes for 1,388 yards and 12 touchdowns last season in guiding the Warriors to a 6-3 record.

With 1971 alternating halfbacks Mark Hoffner (Scranton) and Jack Shoemaker (Wind Gap), both on the baseball team and the other two regulars Bob Lester and Tom Petro graduating, a host of players will see running duty Saturday. Junior Don Kucerik (Harrisburg) and sophomore Jim Gettle (Lebanon) are likely to start at halfback with freshmen Doug Neet (Babylon, N.Y.), Kurt Miller (Catasauqua), and Neil Campbell (Hershey) and juniors Charlie Green (Milton) and Rich Green (Williston Park, N.Y.) in reserve.

Stowasser will receive support from junior Vin Intoccia (Scranton) and freshman Barry Reed (Lehighton).

Freshman Tom Kearney (Levittown) is rated as one of the most promising ends at the school in many years and will replace All-Conference end Glenn Gottschalk. Steve Reese (Stroudsburg), the coach's son, Ramon Hutchison (Emmaus) and Dave Mirza (Pittston) also will see service at end.

The interior offensive line is headed by junior tackle Joe Bonfigiani (Neptune City, N.J.), who won All-Conference and All-East honors. The top newcomer is guard Mike Kasko (Mahonoy City), who already has the edge for a starting position.

Freshmen Bill Sendel (Lehighton) and Fred Swanson (Lafayette, N.J.), both of whom played on the varsity last fall, and junior Ross Edwards (Trenton, N.J.)

are possibilities for the other tackle spot with junior Craig Rauenzahn (Reading) at guard and sophomore Bob Cormack (North Merrick, N.Y.) at center.

The Warriors led the Pennsylvania Conference in defensive statistics last season and should continue to be strong defensively.

Up front, tackle John Smith (Wind Gap), an All-Pennsylvania Conference choice as a sophomore, and end Don Coyer (Dunmore), also a sophomore return. They will be joined by freshman Cliff Hard (Whitehall) and junior Jim Meixsell (Nazareth), at tackle and freshman Jerry Yasso (Bethlehem) at end.

Veterans Tom Polinski (East Stroudsburg), at end and Ron Dukinas (Dallas) at tackle are both injured.

Reese rates linebackers Hank Kunkel (Wescosville) and Frank Snyder (Duncannon), as two of the best in the conference. The other two linebacker positions are being filled by two-year reserves Frank Goulburn (Collegewood, N.J.) and Bill Schlachter (Philadelphia) who are replacing All-Conference Greg Cardone and Ed Long.

The defensive secondary has an alignment of returning starters: Paul Grube (Bethlehem), Jim Fiorito (East Greenville), and Ron Reider (Shamokin).

Three defensive backs, John O'Gara (Shamokin), Rennie Hunt (Newton, N.J.) and Bill Navarre (Easton), are injured but will be in contention for starting posts in the fall.

As usual, Reese plans to use the first team offense and second team defense on one squad Saturday with the first team defense and second team offense on the other.

The Red and Black game will be conducted under regular game conditions with the exception of kickoffs.

Raider clinic to open

EAST STROUDSBURG — The first session in the third annual Raider Memorial Football Clinic is scheduled from 1 to 4 p.m. today at East Stroudsburg State College.

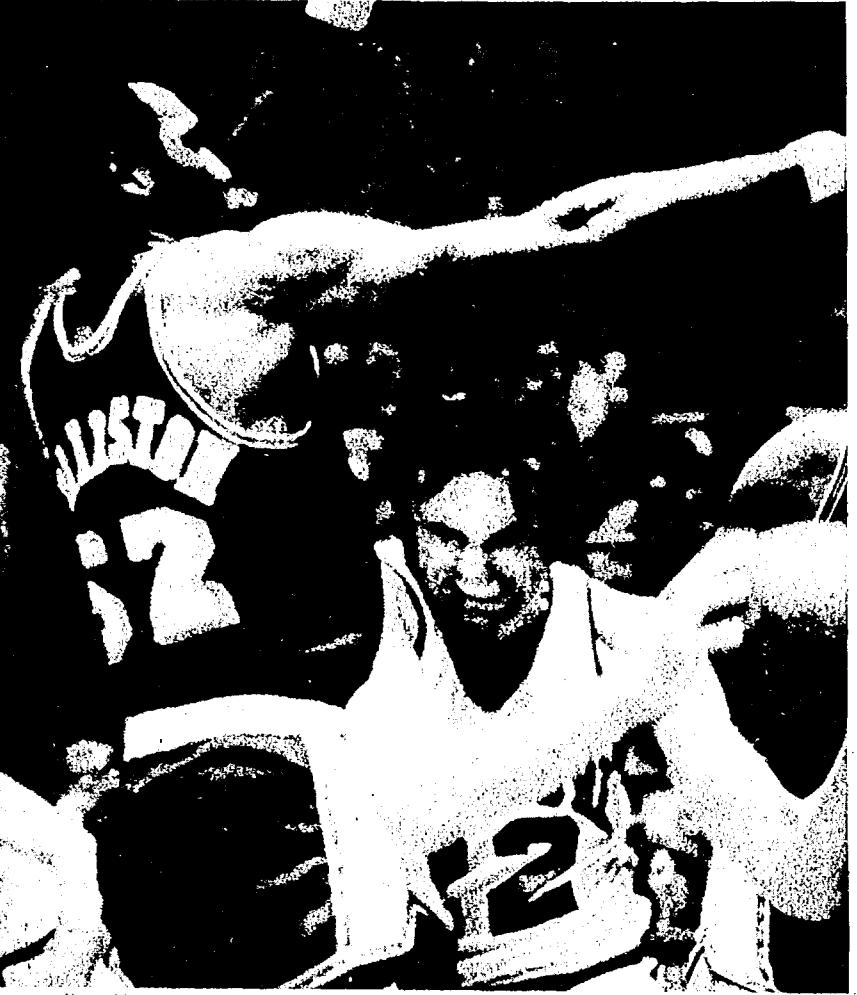

Three college coaches and three high school coaches, all ESSC graduates, will serve as clinicians. The second session today is scheduled from 7 to 10 p.m. There will also be a session from 9 a.m. to noon Saturday.

The clinic will be conducted in the LeRoy J. Koehler Fieldhouse.

All proceeds from the clinic go towards the Gary Rumberger Memorial Fund. Rumberger was a former ESSC football player who died a few years ago.

On the clinic staff will be college coaches John Whitehead of Lehigh University (a 1950 graduate of ESSC), Doug McNamee of Drexel University (1967) and Bill Lewis of Georgia Tech (1963).

Also speaking will be high school coaches Walt Snyder of Council Rock (1961), Dick Wolfslayer of Middletown, N.Y. (1961) and Dick Zimmer of Westfield, N.J. (1960).

Still suffering from a pulled muscle in his right hip sustained in Sunday's game with the Lakers, N.Y. Knicks' Dave DeBusschere slams that same hip into Lakers' Happy Hairston Wednesday. DeBusschere was unable to play the whole second half of the 107-96 loss that gave L.A. a 2-1 edge in the best of seven championship series.

Cubs take series from Atlanta, 8-0

CHICAGO (UPI) — Jose Cardenal and Rick Monday each drove in two runs to support the shootout pitching of Milt Pappas Thursday afternoon as the Chicago Cubs swept a three-game series from the Atlanta Braves 8-0.

Cardenal doubled in Jim Hickman with a drive up the power alley in centerfield in the second inning to put the Cubs on top 1-0. Monday sparked a four-run fourth inning with a total of 10 hits, including a triple into the right field corner, scoring Billy Williams and Hickman. Cardenal then singled Monday home. Pappas followed with a single and Don Kessinger walked to load the bases.

Atlanta catcher Earl Williams then suffered a dizzy spell and was given smelling salts. Williams stayed in the game and the next pitch got by him for a passed ball allowing Cardenal to score and Pappas and Kessinger to move up to second and third. Glen Beckert flied to left to end the inning.

Orlando Cepeda and Henry Aaron each had two of the Braves' six hits. Pappas, who pitched his first complete game this season, was only in serious trouble once.

Jack O'Brian's

New York's Voice of Broadway

NEW YORK — Big crackdown's coming on the homo set's boys-dancing-with-boys disasters . . . Johnny Carson's ex, Joanne, got around to Glenn Ford. This gal must have a jet . . . The Gulf & Western Bldg. on Columbus Circle never was owned by G. & W. (it was the prime tenant, and therefore got its name in lights). The deal was finalized a few hours ago when Karp Realty sold it to millionaire D.K. Ludwig.

Seeds of Palm Beach burglaries aren't making the papers. Bad for its image. And in nearby even richer Hobe Sound, three characters in dinner jackets ransacked a mansion for a fortune — while a bash with 80 guests chattered . . . Rabbi A. J. Leyvold, pres. of the American Jewish Congress, lambasted the Archie Bunker TV bigotry as "a new freedom to be offensive." So you couldn't blame Jean Stapleton (Edith Bunker on the Big TV) for refusing to make like Mrs. Bunker's nasal idiot-whine when Dick Cavett asked her to. She didn't wish to have her real personality confused with her intellectual lower-depths-diving . . . The Tony Awards sometime might just give credit where it's due: the awards were created by the late Brock Pemberton, distinguished Bdw. producer ("Harvey" etc.) and were named for his longtime director, Antoinette Petty . . . Alex Cohen does a slick Tony production job, but he didn't invent them.

DONALD O'CONNOR'S HEART ATTACK TOOK HIM OUT OF THE MILWAUKEE "LITTLE ME" STAR SPOT. Laugh-In's Arte Johnson subs . . . Ralph Nader's probing motor homes. Next he'll write "Unsafe in Any Room."

Ricki Revson, a stunning young beauty, died all too young and suddenly. She was ex-wife of John Revson of the Revlon family and daughter of Jerry Brady, who runs the Rainbow Room and Grill, L'Etoile, Gallagher's etc.; a lonely, tortured kid . . . Lee Grant's telling her "Prisoner of 2nd Ave." east the comedy's long run makes her feel like a Prisoner of Bdw. and so she won't renew her play pact in July . . . Gianni Russo (Carlo in "The Godfather") adores pretty rodeo trick rider Erin O'Brien. Met in Palm Beach. She gives exhibitions at the Sunncroft Ponderosa in Wallkill, N.Y., and that's where Gianni's been riding into the sunset every weekend.

RICHARD HARRIS AND VENESSA REDGRAVE CO-STAR late this year in "Antony & Cleopatra" in London. The volatile duo agreed to duplicate it in a film . . . Actor Joe Silver of "Lenny" is a King of the Voiceovers — the unseen voice of TV commercials, 2,000 so far. Joe has eight network spots currently sending him often to the bank . . . Peter Lorre's daughter Kathy, and actor Chris Hayes said at the Unicorn they'll June-wed.

JANE TUNNEY'S WRITING a book, obligatory for all Presidential-ambitious pols, and he's a long-range one. Dictates it daily in his chauffeur-driven limo . . . "Love Story" author Erich Segal (very disillusioned at the U.S. college pedant-negative-reaction to his financial success) will settle in Munich for a teaching job at the University . . . Trini Lopez has his first starring role in "Antonio," filming in Santiago, Chile.

New restaurant in nearby Flushing, L.I., is called "Joe Dimaggio's," and its matchbooks bear a batting-sketch of Joe. Phoned the spot, and someone admitted it's not baseball Joe. Purportedly another of the same name. With such a bat-like sketch, Joe D? Sure.

JANE FONDA AND DONALD SUTHERLAND plan to transport their worldwide romance to Connecticut this summer. Looking for a summer house there . . . Jackie Onassis never skips an arty celebrity. Not noted in the papers; but she was spotted in the Plaza's Green Tulip chatting over tea . . . Sallee Held tossed a birthday party for herself at Raffles — invited 50 of her Ziegfeld Follies era pals, all beauties, if slightly retroactively. Sallee also (as Sallee Gray) sang with the Vincent Lopez band "before Betty Hutton," which wasn't last week, pray . . . Fella named Dean Watkins of Lansing, Mich., brightened N.Y. nightlife with bulb-illuminated earrings he labels "Dangle-Lite." Gal with him lit up P.J. Clark's around her lobes the other glooming. Not yet on the market.

BOMB THREATS PLAGUED MID-TOWN 5 & 10s: Lamstons and others . . . Any Raquel Welch marriage plans? "I honestly believe it's really impossible for anybody to be married to me," she Welch'd . . . John Jacob Astor went into playboy-decline for several years, but he's back partying the babes at his Miami Beach mansion . . . Richard Harris's "Bloomfield" flick (made in Israel) has been retitled "The Hero."

ACTOR KEVIN McCARTHY is elusive about marriage, too, but he's dating Raquel Welch . . . Here's one for the think-tanks to mull: Holland's birthrate's at its alltime low

Ann Landers

Time heals

Dear Ann Landers: The letter signed "Mood Indigo" brought back some heartbreaking memories. I went through the same agony two years ago.

When my girlfriend and I split up I felt as if the whole world was coming apart at the seams. The emptiness was so big I was sure nothing could fill it. Like "Mood Indigo," I wrote to you for advice. You gave me the same routine — "Put away the old love letters. Ditch her pictures. Get back into circulation. Stop moaning. Don't look back, look ahead." It didn't work.

Every time I took out a new girl I found myself making comparisons. Whenever I'd hear our favorite song I'd get a lump in my throat the size of a tennis ball. Then I noticed a strange thing was happening. The lump kept getting smaller and smaller. I was comparing less and less and making more original appraisals.

It wasn't your advice that saved me, Ann, it was time. You advice merely kept me from killing myself. You told me that one day I would stop hurting and the world would look good again. You said at the end of your letter, "You'll recover, I promise." And you were right.

Thanks for being there when I needed you.

GETTING IT ALL TOGETHER

Dear Getting There: Your letter will help those whose lumps are still the size of tennis balls. It's a great source of strength to know that someone who was once in your shoes made it back. Thanks for writing.

Dear Ann Landers: Somewhere there is a young mother who, about two years ago, offered her infant child for adoption. I would like that woman to know that her child is like a gift from God to us.

Her beautiful baby has brought immeasurable joy and endless love to a childless couple. A home has become alive with love, laughter, plans for the future — thanks to a young person who had the wisdom and courage to give up her precious baby.

We feel privileged and honored to have your child in our family. God bless you, darling. We thank you every day of our lives.

HAPPY GRANDPARENTS

Dear Grandparents: Here's your letter — with no hint to reveal the origin. Thousands of young mothers may think the letter is intended for them. They are sure to find comfort in your beautiful expression of love and gratitude.

Dear Ann: That poem from "The Wife" to the "Other Woman" was fascinating. I'm afraid she's been reading too many junky novels. Any resemblance to real life and the picture she has in her mind is purely miraculous.

I'm the "Other Woman" and there are plenty more like me.

Male golfers bloom in knits of all colors

Bright, brighter, brightest. Watching tournaments on television tells much about the direction of men's golf fashions. The clothes a golfer wears may have no bearing on his score. But dressing like a pro does have certain satisfactions.

"The most conservative men will step out in colors on the golf course," said one of the most conservative men we know.

Key words for the fairways are color and comfort, and don't be surprised if color takes precedence. With so many pros advising, consulting and influencing the manufacturers of golf clothes, the best is yet to come.

Names such as Jack Nicklaus, Arnold Palmer and Gary Player appear as labels on head-to-toe golf attire. Many of those labels are on knits now dominating both the course and clubhouse. Knits cover major wardrobe items—shirts, slacks and sportcoats.

Still a favorite is the pullover knit shirt with collar and button placket. Picture it in two colors for new coordinating possibilities. Although some men stick with woven shirts, the majority is shifting to knits for the sake of stretch comfort.

Where knits score most points are undoubtedly as slacks. According to one prop, knit slacks are the best thing that could have happened to the game. If colors outdo the spectrum in knits and some of the linen-types you will also be seeing, it's to be expected in view of the color explosion throughout the male wardrobe. In truth, much of the credit for the breakout belongs to courageous players.

Even when styles are classic, colors make new impact.

At those shows there was talk of a back-to-black trend on the fairways. It looked convincing in an outfit consisting of black knit slacks, black-and-white prints shirt, black cardigan and black-and-white shoes. Brown as an alternative was represented in a solid zip-front shirt worn with brown-and-white patterned slacks, white shoes.

Red got No. 2 billing in the fashion presentation. Horizontal striped red and white knit shirt and solid red slacks were topped by a white sweater. But some observers kept wondering how red could ever be a No. 2 color anywhere.

Golf matches televised for reception on color sets aren't likely to promote blacks and browns to great heights of popularity. Besides, what would commentators talk about between shots if players retreated to black or brown?

With or without the influence of TV, golf shoes are getting a big play in the color department. On second thought, we think focusing on shoes is logical for the game.

Shiny patchwork cobra in many colors is one of the fanciest effects. It appears significantly as trim against white on newly-important kiltie styles. Matching cobra belts (wide of course) are available, too.

Other two-tone combinations offer blue with bone or blue with tan, black and white dull leathers, white with black patent. By comparison, all-white or even two-tone browns look v-e-r-y staid.

All but the spiked shoes will be worn places other than the golf course. That's what makes golf garb such a good investment.

Shawnee women start early

SHAWNEE ON DELAWARE — The Shawnee Women's Golf Assn. will waste no time getting started this year with the traditional opening luncheon on Memorial Day changed to a Memorial Day brunch for members.

Immediately after the 11 a.m. brunch, the afternoon will be free for golf with members arranging their own starting times.

Mrs. Charles Obenmeyer of Stroudsburg is president of the Women's Assn. of the association in which wives and daughters of Shawnee Country Club members are eligible for membership.

Other officers include Mrs. William Scott, vice president; Mrs. Thomas Weichel, treasurer; and Mrs. Harvey Pullen, secretary.

A nine-hole group is being organized this year and the putting group of associate members will be continued. The tournaments are generally held on Tuesdays throughout the summer.

Mrs. Karl Dresner and Mrs. F.L. Patterson are co-chairmen of the opening brunch.

Glen Brook gals to open season

STROUDSBURG — Glen Brook Women's Golf Assn. will open its season with a luncheon on May 18 at Glen Brook Country Club with its committees all functioning and the schedule of matches already in the hands of its members.

The executive board, headed by Peg Gould, has been meeting since January. A member-guest day on June 29 and flag tournament invitational on July 7 are two major dates on the schedule.

There will be the club handicap championship tournament beginning July 20 and the club and flight championships beginning Aug. 10 with the finals on Aug. 17.

An all-irons tournament is scheduled for May 25; a cancer benefit tournament on June 15, and a costume day three-club tournament on Aug. 24.

The spring party on Sunday, May 28 and a fall party date to be announced will be climaxed by the trophy luncheon on Aug. 31.

Coaches' tourney

Ida Besecker is vice president; Alice Tunney, secretary and Ann Larson is treasurer.

Big year for LPGA

The Ladies Professional Golf Association is now embarked on its biggest year—with a total of 27 tournaments and $925,000 in prize money—and Max Hankin is following the trend.

For the third annual George Washington Classic at Hidden Springs CC, Horsham, Pa., July 7-9, sponsor Hankin has increased the purse $5,000 to $30,000.

Jane Blalock has promised she will be back to defend the title she won last year with a final round 68 for 208, 11 under women's par.

Voted the "most improved player" in the LPGA for the second straight year, pigtailed Jane climbed to third place in money won with $32,493, nearly triple her previous best.

The little New Hampshire girl (she's 5-6, weighs 120) credits her continued advancement to the fact that she hits the ball farther.

Mountain Manor's new course really colorful

MARSHALLS CREEK — Golfers who find themselves slicing into trouble at Mountain Manor may see red — or blue, yellow, white and orange.

Those are the names the Manor has given to its golf courses — three nine-hole courses (Yellow, Blue and Orange) and two par-three courses (Red and White). And colorful the courses are.

Parts of the Blue and Yellow courses were once an 18-hole course, but this year the Manor added nine more holes to the setup, and came out of the dust of construction with three.

The newest is the Orange course, and according to Russell Scott III, vice president and general superintendent, it's the most challenging and picturesque. "You can enjoy the course even if you don't play golf," Scott said.

In fact, it is the toughest of the three courses, playing long and hilly. Four holes might be called water holes, Scott pointed out, while all the par three holes are well bunkered.

The course is a 3,200-yard, par 36 spread, with the longest hole the eighth — 532 yards with par at five. The shortest is a 142-yard par three, but the distance is deceptive. The hole, the second, is played from an elevated tee shooting almost perpendicularly down the mountain to the green at its base.

Another hazard is the scenery. From many holes, the Delaware Water Gap is plainly visible, which could provide enough of a distraction to result in many shanked shots.

The reconstructed Blue course is 3,186 yards long with par at 36; the Yellow is a 3,100-yard, par 35 course. Both courses play pretty much alike, according to Scott, although he felt constrained to add that the Yellow course's first hole is a toughie, paralleling Marshall's Creek, with the approach to the green over the creek. Par is five.

Scott said the new course was added for two reasons — to provide a greater challenge for what he called the "younger generation" golfers and to allow for a greater choice of challenge to golfing guests at the Manor.

—Another reason is to accommodate more golfers, relieving player pressure and making for easier starting.

Scott has played all three courses, but he admits he wasn't much of a challenge to par on any of them. "Takes too much time," he said. "I like to play, but that's two or three hours I could be devoting to something else — like work."

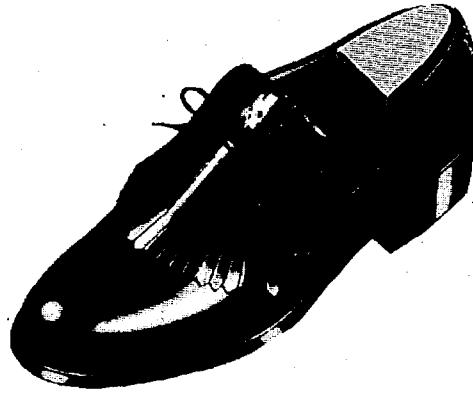

He has a brother, though, who has more time and talent for the game right now. That's my brother, Craig," Scott said, with some pride. "He's a senior at Cornell University, majoring in hotel management, and he's the captain of the golf team."

When Craig gets to work at the Manor, though, chances are he'll have as little time to play as his older brother. It takes time to run a successful business, and that's primarily what the Manor aims to be.

'It went that-a-way' is what golfer seems to be indicating as he points to the probable flight of his ball on Mountain Manor's Blue course. We hope for his sake he's right; Marshall's Creek always beckons to errant golf balls.

Glen Brook takes on new look, managerially

STROUDSBURG — There are a few new things at Glen Brook County Club this year — a new spirit, a new manager, a new pro and a new superintendent of grounds. All are tied in together.

Bill Dimity, who rose from assistant manager last year to the top spot for 1972, is as enthusiastic about the course and its possibilities as he could be.

"I think it's a great course, and we're going to make it better," he said, pointing out a few areas of improvement.

For beginners, improved drainage is going to be installed throughout the summer to eliminate that soggy condition that has plagued linksmen during less-than-ideal weather. Improvements are also scheduled for the tees and the fairways and greens, according to Dimity, are already in excellent shape.

To make sure they stay that way, more new things have been added, including a new seven-gang Toro fairway mower, a new Toro riding greens mower — and a new superintendent, David Halliwell.

Improvements won't stop with the course, either. Clubhouse masonry will be pointed up, a hint of better things inside as well. "We plan more parties this year,"

Dimity noted, obviously enjoying the prospect of a summer full of activity.

The new pro is Joe Stenzik, who hails from Texas. He attended the University of Houston on a full golfing scholarship and graduated this year. He is as enthusiastic as Dimity about the course and its members. He, too, feels the course will play better this year with the improvements scheduled.

Dimity, 27, is a graduate of Kent State University and calls Chillicothe, Ohio, his home town. What does he think of the Poconos? "Beautiful, just beautiful," he said. "I wouldn't leave it for the world."

After graduating from Kent State in 1968, he took his masters degree there in 1969, then spent a two-year sojourn with the U.S. Army.

It was after his discharge he got into the business of managing golf courses. His first assignment was at Glen Brook last year. It wasn't a planned career, he explained. It just happened that way. And he couldn't be happier with his choice.

Both he and his wife, Nan, enjoy playing golf, but he admits his abilities are worth really bragging about. Asked for his handicap, he simply laughed and said, "I'm afraid it would be too embarrassing to talk about."

He has high hopes for his daughter, though. But at one-and-a-half years, little Barbara will have to wait a while before taking her first swing with a shortened nine iron. But when that swing is taken, as far as Dimity is concerned, it will be taken at Glen Brook County Club.

Pair of golfers hole out at Glen Brook Country Club on a day not made for golf . . . but then, when has weather ever scared away a dedicated golfer?

Gals choose functional but pretty golf togs

In the late 1800s, a desire to show off the latest fashions brought many of America's first feminine golfers to the green. But that's hardly the case today.

The lady golfer today is out there on the course because she loves the sport — and while she's not about to be frumpy about her fashions, she's going to choose clothes that are functional as well as fashionable. (Grandmother might have looked great teeing off in her long skirt at the turn of the century, but we hate to think what those yards of fabric did to her swing.)

Fortunately, it's easy to achieve practicality along with a fashion flair on the golf course, considering the wide influence sportswear is having in the fashion world.

Needless to say, movement-loving culottes, above-knee-skirts and shorts are the favorite attire for the lady golfer regardless of what fashionable garb she wears off the green. But there's no reason for the culottes to be drab and the bermudas to be baggy. Well-tailored shorts (bermuda or jamaica length — not super short hot pants which never made it to the golf course anyway and which have now been erased from the rest of the fashion picture) and swingy short skirts and culottes in bright colors and patterns not only add a little more fashion pizazz to your golf wardrobe, they add some extra fun as well.

Why not a nifty, nautical, red-white-and-blue outfit rather than a dull tan or an unexciting pastel? Bright, clear colors are invading the fashion world and there's no reason why they shouldn't invade the golf world as well.

Pants are also a nice alternative to shorts. And while we admit the flare-legged bell bottoms that are also part of fashion's nautical influence might cause a few putting problems, there are any number of straight-legged pants — and pants suits — that could add real style to your golf gear.

Add a nifty blazer to your pants look and you'll really be in the swing of things, fashionable and otherwise. That same blazer, of course, could also top those shorts or that A-line skirt you like so well. And, speaking of A-line skirts, why not switch to a pleated one for a change — it's newer looking and just as marvelous for moving around in.

While sleeveless shirts and shells are favorite stand-bys, a newer topping for your skirts and shorts would be a slightly more daring tank top. On a really hot day it will keep you cool when you wear it as a single layer, and it can also be worn over another sweater or shirt (not sleeveless, please) for the look of layers fashion loves.

Now that you're convinced you're going to switch to some tank tops and sweaters and you're also going to try them in some bright, clear fun color such as red or purple, carry things a step further and get in on the print and pattern parade. Choose a flowery Oriental printed dress or an anchor-printed T-shirt.

Or try something that's sparked with a fun applique or embroidered motif. We would certainly be the last to knock those marvelous knit Lacoste dresses with their crocodile emblems appliqued to the bodice, but that crocodile is rather tiny and there are so many other fun things that make a much bigger statement. Along with sweaters and such with anchors and flowers and ice cream sundaes, we've even seen some skirts and shirts appliqued with gold clubs and tees.

Other "now" things you could incorporate into your golf gear are fun-loving sailor hats in place of the normal, somewhat unexciting style golfers are prone to wear. Or choose a colorful visor in bright color that just happens to match your brightly colored golf shoes. Snappy knee socks, in a fun color or pattern can also liven up a look, and so can a great leather belt.

There are really so many things you can do with fashion's many sportswear-inspired looks that no woman anywhere has any excuse NOT to look great on the golf course this season.

NECK, SHOULDER AND ARM COMPLAINTS

By Dr. Thomas F. Snyder
D.C.Q.C.O.

Duly, the Doctor of Chiropractic is called upon to care for patients with neck, shoulder and arm problems, that may be called by the patient; neuritis, bursitis, neuralgia, rheumatism or sprained, strained muscles, or even poor circulation.

The causes of these conditions are varied; spinal subluxations (displacement of one or more vertebrae which cause irritation to the nerve), spinal curvatures, postural defects, occupational stresses, etc.

In cases of this type, the Chiropractor's first concern is to find the cause of the disability through questioning the patient and giving a spinal examination. He will then adjust the spinal subluxation or distortion which caused the irritation to the nerves, thereby relieving the patient's symptoms and maintaining health.

(One of a series of articles published in the public interest to explain and illustrate the scientific practice of Chiropractic, written by Dr. Thomas Franklin Snyder, Chiropractic Orthopedist, Brodheadsville, Pa. Phone 992-4787).

Workmen put finishing touches on new tee at fifth hole on Shawnee Inn's Blue course — and none too soon. The Shawnee Women's Golf Assn. is planning an early start this year, and that tee had better be ready.

ESSC golf mentor in 25th coaching year

EAST STROUDSBURG -- This is the 25th year of coaching at East Stroudsburg State College for Dr. George Ockershausen, the school's golf coach and a popular figure on the Glen Brook links.

Dr. Ockershausen has guided the Warriors to four straight winning seasons. He has coached golf at the school for eight years.

His greatest coaching success at East Stroudsburg came in baseball in which he had 12 straight winning seasons and won Pennsylvania Conference championships in 1957 and 1963. He also coached football and wrestling and served as athletic director.

Dr. Ockershausen is head of the Health Department of the School of Health Sciences and Physical Education. For the last 10 years, he has run the highly-successful ESSC blood drives for the Red Cross.

The current East Stroudsburg team includes an East Stroudsburg High School graduate, Bryan DeLuca, who won his first six matches this season. DeLuca is a senior.

The Warriors have a schedule of 13 matches, ten of them on the home Glen Brook

Gene Littler: Good putters big money winners in golf

What the pros say and think:

"You have to be a good putter to be a big money-winner in golf," says Gene Littler. "A good putter is a guy who makes the little putt—five feet or less."

"George Archer is the best right now but I think Bob Charles has the best stroke."

"My putting is either great or terrible."

Paul Harney, the teaching pro at Pleasant Valley CC, Sutton, Mass.) who won this year's San Diego Open:

"I've studied a lot of swings since I turned pro in 1954, and even the great players vary a lot."

"But the successful pros all have the same action in the hitting areas and that's about all I concentrate on when I'm teaching one of my club members."

On the 16th hole of the final round of the Crosby at Pebble Beach this year, young Johnny Miller shanked a 7-iron into the gallery.

"I hadn't shanked a ball since I was 12," Johnny said. "Then I remembered if you shank one, you are apt to shank eight in a row. Imagine how I felt playing those last few holes."

Miller tied Jack Nicklaus for first place but lost the playoff.

"I was beginning to wonder if I ever was going to win," Grier Jones said after beating Bob Murphy in a sudden death playoff for the 1972 Hawaiian Open.

"I have two friends, Johnny Miller and Jerry Heard, who came out here on the pro tour at the same time I did three years ago and they both won last year."

"Golf is my whole life," Grier said, "I'd still be playing if I couldn't break 80."

Frank Beard, one of the best himself, says great putters "are born, not made. It is strictly feel, not mechanical."

"It takes more skill to be a great putter than a great player. There are more good players than good putters."
